1. During the summer 1950 four radar sets were delivered to Shanghai in twenty trucks. One set was manufactured in the U. S., one in the USSR, and one in Japan.* Two sets were installed in Shanghai, one in T'ait's'ang (太倉), a small town northwest of Shanghai, one in Maicalingwei (孝陵衛), Nanking.
2. Soviet technicians directed installation of the sets and training of personnel in their use, and planned to return to North China after completion of the training course.
